youtube.com/watch?...Page 2youtube.com/watch?... A simple guide and some tips for improving how you play Apex on your PC or Console. What are some other basic tips you can use? Any tips for beginners for battle royale games? Also, I was wondering if there was a way to see the whole map in the game? I've never played Fortnite or a game like him. Page 2 12 comments What are some initial tips and suggestions for someone new to apex legends? Any tips for a noob like me? I'm familiar with FPS and Battle Royale, but I guess I'm bad at this. A beginner can find Apex Legends has a huge amount of things to take and learn. I started a series of guides for Season 2 to facilitate the process of entering Apex (and possibly Battle Royale for the first time). Enjoy! Hi everyone, I'll leave an introduction for the guide, but I wanted to share this with everyone as soon as I edited it. I think all players can learn from the guide, but mostly focus on beginners to middle BR players. Be sure to check out Pro Tip, a list of characters and weapons, too, for advanced players. Personally, I think the quick gun switch #1 what all good players should learn in the current game. Watch: (Also, Respawn if you're reading, leave this mechanic. It is incredibly accessible, satisfying for learning and executing, and is a great mechanic who attracts the competitive side of the game)He would love everyone's feedback. I'll try to expand this as I get comments/reviews, as well as add more content as Respawn posts new content. TLDR: See guide. Thank you,Edit: I get a lot of PMS. Thx for support. I decided to check out APEX Legends today when I saw it fall on Steam and I have no idea what I'm doing. That's a lot of dying and not getting anything to die, haha! I ran a search but couldn't find anything super convincing - although it may be on me, I was hoping guys could give me some good tips on do and not or maybe point me in the direction of your favorite beginner's guide here or youtube. For context, I've played a lot of Valoranto (Low Silver at best, skilfully) and this is my first Battleground game experience, ever. Thank you so much for your help!
